

What if everyone had an equal chance at a healthy life?

Under a bednet, at the peak of malaria season, a little boy in Zambia dreams of becoming a teacher.

In line for vaccine, holding a crying baby, a mother in Cambodia dreams that her daughter will grow up strong and free.

Walking home, after his first HIV test, a husband in Kenya dreams of another twenty years with his family.

What if everyone had an equal chance to see their dreams come true?

We're entering a new era, one in which effective and lasting solutions for the world's biggest health problems are a heartbeat away. It only takes a little creativity to make sure these solutions work for everyone.

Every day, PATH works to get creative solutions where they're needed most.

Find out how you can help at www.path.org.

www.path.org